Dixon Attorney Will Oppose Collins in Senatorial Race

Jones to File Notice He'll Run for Senate

Today, the last day when aspirants for state or county office may declare their intention to be a candidate before the Republican or Democratic primary elections of April 11, brought a few new contests into the open.

In Lee county, Henry Wilson, a former deputy sheriff, filed as a candidate on the Republican ticket for county treasurer and Dale Flynn filed as a candidate for county treasurer in the Democratic primary.

Jones for Senator
Atty. Edward A. Jones, former state's attorney of Lee county, will file a petition this afternoon in the office of the secretary of state as a candidate on the Democratic ticket for state senator, to oppose the Republican incumbent, Senator Dennis Collins of DeKalb.

It is by the orders from Springfield that Democrats all over the state are asked to make up full slates of tickets for all offices, county and state, that local Democrats felt impelled to put up at least token resistance to the Republican ticket and Atty. Jones reluctantly allowed his name to be used for this purpose. It is understood that the Democratic administration had even pressured local Democrats to put up a stronger fight for more representation in the lower house in this district, but the 35th Democratic senatorial committee in its meeting the other day decided they would not nominate more than one member of the house, Representative Considine. The Republican senatorial committee has certified two candidates for representative and the incumbents, C. K. Willett of Dixon and George Brydia of Prophetstown, are both candidates to succeed themselves.

Abbott Not a Candidate
Kenneth Abbott, who will finish his term as county treasurer this fall, and who had considered filing for another county office, has concluded not to run and today announced his retirement from the political arena.

Flood Threat Centers Along Mississippi

By The Associated Press
The major Midwest flood threat had centered today along the lower Mississippi river where it already had driven an estimated 3,500 lowland dwellers from their homes.

The stream was running bankfull and slowly rising but U. S. Army engineers said they expected the crest to roll safely on providing the area escapes any heavy rains.

At Cairo, Ill., where the Ohio River empties into the Mississippi, the city counted itself virtually out of flood danger. Although still 15 feet above technical flood stage, the stream had dropped about a foot since Friday, easing pressure on the levees.

Weather in the area today brought some measure of comfort to those threatened by a further rise as the crest swept downstream. Temperatures were mild over all the southern two-thirds of the nation and the only precipitation was a harmless light drizzle at some points.

A narrow band of subnormal cold lay across the northern edge of the country. In parts of the Dakotas and Minnesota the mercury was well below zero. Pembina, N. D., was the coldest spot with -16.

'Heavy Hero' of 200 Films--Alan Hale--Dies in Hollywood

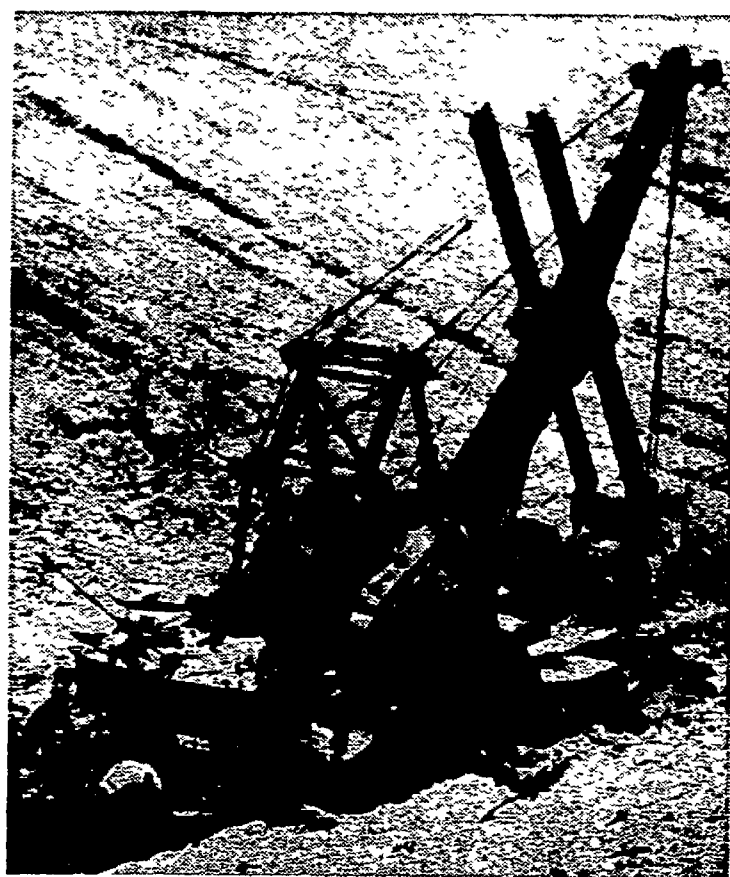

Hollywood, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Death has taken jovial hearty Alan Hale, at 57, a veteran of 39 years as a motion picture actor and director.

Hale, one of the last members of the film colony who had been active in pictures since its earliest days, died last night in Hollywood Presbyterian hospital of a virus infection, complicated by a liver ailment.

He became ill last Thursday, three days after returning from Helena, Mont., where he attended a premier of the film, "Montana," in which he appeared.

Dixon Firemen Jump At Seven and Eleven

Dixon firemen jumped at 7 and 11 Saturday night—but it wasn't because they were excited about galloping dominoes.

At 7 o'clock what appeared to be cleaning fluid ignited and set fire to rubbish in back of the De Luxe cleaners at 311 W. First street. Fire Chief Jake Johnson said no damage was reported.

At 11 o'clock, Mrs. Lyle Melvin, 202 E. Fellows street, reported that smoke was coming up into the house through a register. Firemen found that a motor on an oil-burner had burnt out. No smoke damage was reported.

Illinois Grade School Teacher Shortage Shown in U. S. Report

Chicago, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Illinois needs about 4,700 new elementary teachers each year during the next two or three years, a government agency has reported.

The federal bureau of labor statistics said Saturday that a survey indicated this number of new teachers is required if the state's teaching staffs are to keep pace with increasing enrollments and to replace teachers who leave the schools.

The study was made by the bureau in cooperation with the veterans administration. It found that less than 1,000 college students completed courses last year qualifying them to teach in Illinois grade schools.

The report added that 4,000 of the 4,700 teachers needed each year would be required to replace those leaving the profession, if the withdrawal rate continues at 12 per cent. Some of the more than 2,000 teachers holding temporary certificates are also expected to leave their jobs.

Two Beds Needed For England's Biggest Patient

Chertsey, England, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Ernest Evans is eight feet six inches tall. He weighs 434 pounds.

And he's flat on his back—on two beds placed end to end—in St. Peter's hospital here. He is the biggest case St. Peter's ever had.

Evans was trucked in for a minor knee operation. It took 11 male nurses to move him.

The staff couldn't figure out a good way to lift him unconscious onto the operating table. He had to climb on himself and then take the anesthetic.

Phone Strike Looms; Workers Threaten to Jam Switchboards

Washington, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The CIO's communications workers said today a nationwide telephone strike seems inevitable and threatened to back it with a new strike technique—jamming the phone lines.

The union asked its parent CIO organization to arrange, in the event of a strike, for CIO's 6,000,000 estimated members to flood the phone system with calls to break down automatic equipment.

The CWA has threatened to call a nationwide walkout of 300,000 telephone operators and equipment care takers and installers at any time. The union is asking for higher wages, a 35-hour week, pension improvements and shortened apprentice periods.

The appeal for CIO help was made by CWA President Joseph A. Beirne in a letter to CIO President Philip Murray.

Certain types of boycotts are illegal under the Taft-Hartley labor law but the CWA's novel proposal is a sort of reverse proposition. Instead of withholding use of a company's product as usual under a boycott, the CWA now is encouraging as much use of the employer's product as possible to break it down.

Legion Sours On Hoover's Plans for VA

Chicago, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The Hoover commission's recommendations on veterans' affairs hit a sour note among Illinois American Legion leaders.

The state Legion's executive committee voted yesterday to set aside $10,000 to fight the commission's recommendations.

The committee authorized the sum for this purpose in a special session. The money is to be used to set up an educational plan "to acquaint veterans and non-veterans alike in the state with the provisions of the Hoover report as they affect veterans."

Outlines Proposals
Gen. John Thomas Taylor of Washington, D. C., the Legion's national legislative consultant, outlined the Hoover commission proposals. The proposals include splitting up of the present veterans administration into five separate federal agencies and the amendment or repeal of 18 sections of the Veterans Preference act of 1944.

Taylor termed these recommendations "nothing else than a gross betrayal of the nation's 19,000,000 veterans." He took issue with the commission's claim that the proposals would result in economy.

"This is utterly false. The result will be only chaos, more red tape and waste. The records of the nation's veterans, under one roof now, would be scattered to the four winds. More bureaus would be set up—and taxes would be increased."

"This isn't economy. It's just the opposite, with the veteran being the goat and the taxpayer holding the bag."

Spotts Draws $100 Fine on Assault Charge

Pheichner Spotts, 1012 Madison avenue, was fined $100 and costs today by County Judge Grover W. Gehant for assault and battery against Miss Ascindy Rogers, Dixon State hospital, a month ago.

Judge Gehant dismissed the original charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Spotts, ruling that fists were not deadly weapons.

State's Attorney Morey C. Pires altered the original charge to include a flashlight, saying Spotts used the flashlight as a deadly weapon in the beating of Miss Rogers.

When the assault with a deadly weapon charge was dropped altogether today, Spotts pleaded guilty to a second charge of assault and battery. He was represented by Edwin W. Merrick.

Republican leaders publicly scoffed at suggestions that the party's lines in the house are badly split.

"We had a little trouble" at the caucus, one of them admitted.

Republicans who attended the caucus call that an understatement. They said Rep. Frank Keefe of Wisconsin "read the riot act" and said in a few choice words that

Justice of the Peace Wars On 'Rascality,' City Editor

Grand Ledge, Mich., Jan. 25.—(AP)—A 70-year-old justice of the peace who claims he is fighting a one man war against "rascality" in this community of 4,000 faced an ouster move today.

Justice Charles F. Young's adversaries in a feud that has split Grand Ledge into rival camps are Frank G. Weinert, 40-year-old weekly newspaper editor and Police Chief William Carter.

He had Weinert in jail Saturday for several hours of a five-day sentence. But a habeas corpus writ freed the editor, accused of using insulting language in the court room.

Young had threatened to take the same action against Carter, who he says has not been discharging his police duties properly.

Petitions urging Michigan Governor G. Mennen Williams to remove the justice reported nearly ready to take to the state's chief executive.

They charge Young with malicious prosecution and with acting as judge, jury and complaining witness.

A week ago Young haled Weinert and Carter into court and charged the editor with writing a "scurrilous" article about them.

He sentenced them to jail but did not sign commitment papers.

Weinert, called back Saturday, was jailed on a fresh contempt charge because Young said he made insulting remarks in the courtroom.

TUCKER NOT GUILTY—Preston Tucker joyfully waves his hat as he leaves Judge Walter LaBuy's court in Chicago, acquitted on charges of mail fraud and conspiracy. Tucker, Seven Aides, Found Not Guilty on Fraud Charges

Alaska Vote Called Move To Stall FEPC

Washington, Jan. 23.—(AP)—House leaders tagged an Alaska statehood bill for consideration today in a maneuver to prevent immediate debate on President Truman's fair employment practices legislation.

Speaker Rayburn told reporters he would recognize Rep. Peterson (D-Fla.) to call up the Alaska bill.

Rayburn said the "bad humor" caused by a rules fight in the house last week does not leave the proper "atmosphere" for consideration of the FEPC bill at this time.

Rayburn had planned originally to put the house to work on a minor foreign bill. But he was blocked on that by Chairman Kee (D-W Va.) of the foreign affairs committee.

Kee said this bill was not "in shape" although it has been pending since last October.

The whole situation revolves about the house's 21-day rule. This permits legislation to be brought up on the second and fourth Mondays of each month even though the rules committee, which ordinarily controls the legislative program, has not approved the measure.

On these Mondays, Rayburn has the say. This is because he can recognize, or refuse to recognize, anyone he wishes.

Crews Work to Clear Freight Train Wreck
Klamath Falls, Ore., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Southern Pacific railway crews labored at the edge of a lake and under a thawing bluff today to restore mainline tracks blocked by a freight train wreck.

Officials hoped the route would be cleared of wreckage of 21 smashed freight cars and the rails relaid by noon. A huge mountain type locomotive lay beside the scene. It will be moved later.

Thawing weather was blamed for the fall of the rock 18 miles north of here.

Award Two Contracts For Super Highway
Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23.—(AP)—Two contracts totaling $70,100 have been awarded the Speedway Wrecking Co., Chicago, for removal of 24 buildings in connection with the Congress street superhighway project in Chicago, the state highway division announced today.

A federal court jury returned the verdict for Preston T. Tucker and the other defendants on charges of mail fraud, conspiracy, and violation of federal securities regulations in promoting manufacture and sale of the car.

On Fourth Ballot
The jury which heard the government's 73 witnesses in the three months trial reached its verdict on the fourth ballot after 17 hours of deliberation.

The case had gone to the jury at 10:55 a. m., Saturday without any of the defendants or witnesses in their behalf offering testimony. Defense attorneys contended simply that the government had not proved any of the charges in its 31-count indictment.

Tucker, 46, was president and board chairman of the corporation from the time he launched it in 1947 until it sank into bankruptcy last March. Other defendants acquitted were Fred Rockelman, 63, executive vice president; Robert

Claims He Broke Coast-to-Coast Mark for Planes
New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Paul Mantz, 47-year-old speed pilot and movie stunt flier, today claimed a new West-East coast record for planes with gasoline-fueled engines.

He spanned the continent yesterday in four hours, 52 minutes, 58 seconds, in a converted P-51 fighter plane. The plane had a 2,000 horsepower Rolls Royce Packard engine.

The time was about seven minutes better than the record set last March by former army major Joe De Bona, flying actor Jimmy Stewart's souped-up P-51.

Results of Surprise Autopsy In 'Mercy' Killing Withheld
Manchester, N. H., Jan. 25.—(AP)—The results of a surprise autopsy on the victim of New Hampshire's so-called mercy slaying will remain a guarded secret until Dr. Hermann N. Sander goes on trial.

The 40-year-old country doctor is charged with first degree murder in the death of Mrs. Abbie C. Borroto, 59, wife of a Manchester oil salesman.

The state claims Dr. Sander took Mrs. Borroto's life by injecting air into her veins as she lay near death from cancer.

Atty. Louis Wyman, counsel for Dr. Sander, said last night the results of the autopsy will not be disclosed until the trial gets underway. The body was disinter-red at the request of the defense. The state's chief prosecutor, Atty. Gen. William L. Phinney, said the state did not seek an autopsy because the embalming of the body erased evidence which would have aided the government's case.

He said the state had no objection to the defense conducting the autopsy which was performed Saturday at Hillsborough County hospital, scene of the alleged mercy slaying.

Asks Congress To Plug Holes In Tax Laws

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY
Washington, Jan. 23.—(AP)—President Truman sent congress a tax program today calling for a cut in excise or "sales" levies, plugging of loopholes, and a billion-dollar boost in taxes on corporations, estates and big gifts.

In a special message, Mr. Truman did not say specifically how much reduction he thought should be made in the excise taxes. But he said cuts are "most urgently needed" in the taxes on freight, railroad and bus tickets, long distance telephone and telegraph bills and "the entire group of retail excises, including such items as toilet preparations, luggage and handbags."

How Much?
Mr. Truman did specify that these taxes should be cut "only to the extent that the loss in revenue can be recouped by eliminating

Main Tax Proposals
1. Cut seven excise, or "sales" levies. Without saying how much he would cut them, he mentioned taxes on transportation of freight (now 3 per cent) and passengers (15 per cent), long-distance telephone and telegraph bills (25 per cent) and toilet preparations, luggage and handbags (20 per cent).

2. Make up for these cuts by closing "loopholes" in present laws. He singled out for particular criticism the allowances under present law for "depletion" of oil wells and mines.

3. Raise corporation taxes and revise estate and gift taxes so as to bring $1,000,000,000 a year more revenue to the government.

the tax loopholes which now permit some groups to escape their fair share of taxation."

He said the biggest "loophole" is "the excessive depletion exemptions now enjoyed by oil and mining interests," adding:

"Under these exemptions, large percentages of the income from oil and mining properties escape taxation, year after year. Owners of mines and oil wells are permitted, after deducting all costs of doing business, to exclude from taxation on account of depletion as much as half of their net income."

As to business, the President recommended:

'Moderate Increase'
A "moderate increase" in the tax rate applicable "to that part of a corporation's income which is in excess of $50,000."

At the same time he recommended that the tax rate on corporate income between $25,000 and $50,000 which is now taxed "at the excessively high 'notch' rate of 53 per cent, be reduced to the same rate as applies above $50,000."

He proposed that estate and gift tax laws be revised to provide uniform treatment and reduce present exemptions so as to "not only bring in more revenue," but to "improve the fairness of the estate and gift tax laws."

Truman Talk Perks Wall Street Market
New York, Jan. 23.—(AP)—Wall Street took a look at President Truman's special tax message today, and the stock market perked up.

An early decline was gradually halted as details of the tax message were circulated and some gains were made.

The response could hardly be called a rally but the market as a whole held steady with a mixture of gains and losses about even.

Predicts Senate Changes in House Social Security Bill

By JAMES MARLOW
Washington, Jan. 23—(AP)—This year congress is likely to change the social security law in several ways.
The main changes being talked about would increase social security payments—particularly on old age pensions—and bring more people under the law's protection.
Needs Senate Approval
Last year the house passed a bill to do this. But the law hasn't been changed because the senate hasn't yet approved.
It is expected to act this year. The law finally passed probably will be different, at least in some ways, from the bill passed by the house.
That's because the senate right now with the house bill in front of it—is trying to put together a bill of its own.
If the senate passes a bill different from that of the house, both houses will have to take the bills, iron out the differences by compromising, and then pass one bill agreed to by both houses.
That's why it's impossible for anyone now to predict exactly what changes may be in the social security law.
At this moment one thing seems certain if the law is changed: that the size of old-age pensions will be increased.
The house-passed bill would do that. The Truman administration urged it as recently as last week through Arthur J. Altmeyer, commissioner for social security. And it was recommended by the senate's advisory council on social security.
This council, headed by the late Edward R. Stettinius Jr. and composed of 17 educators, businessmen and labor leaders, was appointed by the senate Sept. 17, 1947.
Its job was to study the social security program and make any recommendations to the senate it thought necessary for improving the present law.
Senate Uses Report
The report and recommendations of this council—submitted last Dec. 1—are the basis on which the senate now is preparing to work out a bill of its own, plus what ideas it gets from the house bill, Altmeyer, and others.
The council, the house bill and Altmeyer all recommended widening the coverage of the law to bring under its benefits people not covered now, besides increasing certain benefits, like old age pensions.
While the social security act was passed in 1935, the last major change was made 10 years ago.
The maximum old age pension a worker can receive now when he retires at 65 is around $45 a month. The average, though, is about $25, the lowest $10.
Maximum Now $67.50
Since a retired worker's wife receives half the size of his pension when she reaches 65, the most a retired covered worker and his wife can receive now is about $67.50 a month ($45 for him, $22.50 for her.)
But not all workers are covered by the pension. When the uncovered ones reach 65, they get nothing.
Around 35,000,000 workers now are under the old-age pension system, 25,000,000 are not.
Altmeyer, expressing the president's views, wants 20,000,000 of the 25,000,000 workers not covered by old-age insurance brought into the program. This is about 9,600,000 more than the house-passed bill would bring in.
About 2,000,000 of the 11,000,000 men and women 65 or older in this country are getting old age pensions.
The Twentieth Century Fund reports that the largest part of America's wartime increase in total output came from the fact that more people worked rather than from increased productivity.

Reports from Red China Hint Higher Prices But More Taxes

By FRED HAMPSON
Hong Kong—Fresh reports filtering out of Red China tell of more belt-tightening, higher prices and stiffer taxation.
Predictions of last summer are materializing into a winter of woe for China's common man. Even the Communist press and radio have stopped trying to keep it secret.
Reports Reach AP
Reports reaching the Associated Press from the Yangtze valley, site of such great cities as Shanghai and Nanking, say large shops are getting smaller and small shops are disappearing; Communist papers carry daily notices of closures because of lack of business.
Doctors and hospitals also are hard-hit. The American missionary hospital and University hospital affiliated with Gining college in Nanking are reported, "selling their medical supplies on the open market in order to pay their staffs."
Eight million persons are destitute as a result of "large-scale natural disasters," according to announcement of Communist Premier Chou En-Lai, which recently appeared in Red newspapers.
40,000,000 Homeless
He estimated that last summer's floods in North and Central China inundated more than 14,000,000 acres and forced 40,000,000 persons from their homes. In Hopei province alone more than 4,000,000 acres were flooded and 10,000,000 persons left homeless.
Chou's directive to all city governments suggested putting refugees into factories and handwork, but it is well known throughout Red China that factories are in financial difficulties and handicraft industries are no better off.
Nan Han-Chen, member of the Communist People's Bank of Nanking, recently told a group of officials there that North China farmers are paying at least 20 per cent of their production in taxes. He said it takes the taxes of 30 farmers merely to feed and clothe one soldier, exclusive of ammunition. The expense has become a perplexing problem because of the many Nationalist troops shifting over to the Reds.
Aid From Russia?
Reports from both Nanking and Shanghai say the Chinese public is becoming increasingly convinced that Chairman Mao Tze-Tung's main purpose on his mission to Moscow was to get quick and extensive economic aid, including large credits for railway rolling stock.
One source says, "So far as it is felt, China has not received much material help; the much-publicized Russian-Manchurian barter agreement of last year has turned out to be only a local arrangement."

I Love My Doctor

By Evelyn Barkins

XXVIII

AFTER six months of marriage, I felt as suspicious about ordinary diseases as an ermine wrap next to a skunk jacket in a department store elevator. "Just a nagover from too much excitement," I told myself after my mother left with her der forebodings; "of course I won't tell John."

But John, when he came home in a little while, didn't need telling.

"Still angry, dear?" he asked. "When it came to interpreting my emotions, John could sometimes be as deft as a bank clerk trying to diagnose stomach ulcers."

"Of course not," I said with meedless temper.

"Then you don't feel well," he said, a little more definitely. "Let me examine you."

"That's not necessary," I stoically refused. "I'm probably tired from all that burglar scare last night. A good night's sleep will fix me up fine, you'll see."

The next morning I couldn't get up at all.

"I'm going to examine you whether you like it or not," said John.

"Let me alone," I yelled. "There's nothing that matter with me. I've got to go to school."

"You're feverish," he retorted furiously.

"And you're just making a fuss like always. Remember last time?" It was perhaps unfair to refer to last time, for certainly John remembered it only too well. We were out driving two weeks before, after a tremendous dinner at a near-by restaurant, when suddenly John got a pain. Now any pain, from a shaving scratch to a common cold, makes a man act as if he were undergoing a hot-iron leg amputation without anesthesia. He groans, he moans, he writhes, like a patient at the "Wailing Wall, and practically argues his epitaph with his life insurance beneficiaries.

lay himself down on the back seat like King Arthur on his funeral barge. "I'll be right back," I said, turning to go to the nearest public telephone, suddenly fully aware of the genuine fear on his face.

"It can't be anything," I told myself. "It's just his usual medical exaggeration of a simple situation."

After a quick conversation with Bob who promised to come right by, I walked the few blocks back to the car as if they were the last mile in Sing Sing.

In about five minutes, or even less, Bob rode up in the hospital ambulance, with all the sirens going full blast like a five-alarm fire. "Just you relax," he told us both. "Dr. Gillespie is here."

"Wanta ride?" Shorty McGurk, the ambulance driver asked. I had always teased for one.

"Not now, Shorty," I said, trying to smile over my worry. "Maybe later."

AND then, finally, Bob came out with John following sheepishly. "What a phony!" Bob said. "Gets a little gas pain and thinks he's dying. I brought along Tony's portable electrocardiograph, and ran a test just to be doubly sure it's negative but all he's got is a plain upper stomach ache."

At first I was so relieved that I threw my arms joyfully about the former condemned man and kissed him. Then I remembered everything, and turned on him in righteous indignation. "Scaring the life out of me! Didn't I tell you it was nothing?" I demanded.

"You've got warmer!"

"I'd have felt the same," Bob spoke up, trying to defend John.

"You glorified blunder!" I raged, climbing in beside Shorty McGurk. "Let's take a ride, Shorty," I said, "and ring all the bells. I've had enough!"

But it was never enough, and I welded the story like an Amazonian club over John's head, whenever necessary. But that morning, my diversionary move failed. "That's over," John said definitely. "You stay right here. I'll get my bag from the office and examine you."

Trumanites Win One Battle In Their War for 'Fair Deal'

By JAMES MARLOW

Washington, Jan. 21—(AP)—The Truman administration won the battle, but not the war—at least not yet.

This was the battle: Whether the Truman program could be bottled up for the rest of this congressional session by the rules committee.

This committee of 12 members—with four Trumanites overwhelmed by four southern democrats and 4 republicans—was all set to block the Truman program this year.

But yesterday the Trumanites won the battle when a majority of the house, including some republicans, voted against the committee.

This is the war: Whether congress, before it quits next summer, will shore through any, or much, or all of the Truman program.

The rules committee now can't block the program. And some parts of that program—for instance, part of the civil rights program—may get through the house.

But that's not the same as getting through congress because before any of it can become law the senate must also approve. And there are plenty of southern democrats in the senate, ready to block the civil rights program any way

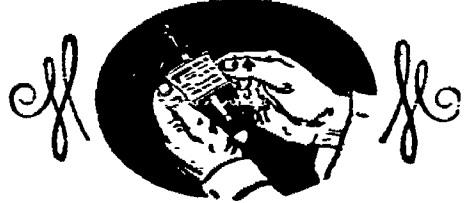

Still, winning the battle was important for the Trumanites. The rules committee used to have tremendous power.

It decided—since it was supposed to—

Some victims scarcely know what is wrong with them. They feel like they are tied to a log every time they try to do something. Their blood cells are shrunk or ragged out. This is BLOOD STARVATION. Such persons wonder why they feel tired and then why they have to be half-sick and half-well—why they can't have their full share of energy.

Such discouraged people will now find—in CERTA-VIN—two liquid elements that regenerate Red Blood Cells. This is a new formula, known as a Hematonic. It is taken before meals and works with your food. Thus your food digests faster and better, with less gas and bloating, so you get the fullest good out of your meals. Soon your watery blood is enriched with Iron and your nerves are energized with Vitamin B. Your red blood count goes up, and you feel better all over.

GM Works on Its 'Bigness' Problem

General Motors made the financial pages the other day with a story that deserves wider attention. It announced that its 1949 net profit probably will top $600,000,000. If so, that will be the biggest profit ever rung up by any company in the United States.

Could GM somehow get out of paying any income taxes, that profit would be a whopping $1,100,000,000. Back in the early New Deal days, such a sum would have equaled a fourth of the revenues the federal government was drawing in.

But even that figure doesn't give you a full idea of GM's huge operations. Its 1949 sales total of $5,500,000,000 is a better key. That's roughly the amount this country spent on foreign aid in the Marshall Plan's first year.

All this means General Motors is not only a tremendous corporation—it is a sort of government within the government. What it does affects not only millions of its customers and stockholders. It concerns vitally the welfare of the 400,000 people who work for GM.

It's as if the company controlled a city about the size of New Orleans or Newark, N. J. Inevitably, GM has a great deal to say about the kind of life those 400,000 live.

Because so many people are directly affected, a corporation the size of General Motors must be operated as a public trust. It can't make capricious decisions without regard to their multiplying effects on the lives of many human beings.

Right now big corporations are under fire just for being big. The theory is that when they're so large they crush—or can crush—virtually all serious competition. We aren't concerned here about that aspect of the problem. We're thinking only of what bigness does to the people who come into immediate contact with it.

General Motors, to its credit, is aware that bigness has human disadvantages as well as economic advantages. The great corporation tends to be impersonal, distant, inflexible, immovable.

GM is trying to do something about it. The company is not pulled by a single set of strings held in New York or Detroit. Perhaps more than any sizable company in the nation, it is governed by the men who head its scattered individual units. Says its board chairman, Alfred P. Sloan: "We operate a free competitive economy within ourselves. Our competition is one division against another, as well as against firms on the outside."

Whether by its rule of wide freedom within its broad bounds GM manages to overcome the weaknesses of great size, we do not profess to say with confidence.

But we find encouragement in GM's effort to solve the problem of its own initiative. It is trying to save the gains of size without succumbing to the accompanying weaknesses. Somehow this seems a more sensible process than tossing the economic advantages away just to get back to the human levels of the old handicraft days.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Full Diagnosis for Arthritis Treatment; Careless Cutting Causes Ingrown Toenails

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

Arthritis is not only painful, but it is an extremely serious ailment as well. As I have suggested before, it's difficult to give advice on proper treatment without a full diagnosis.

Q—About two months ago my foot swelled up to twice its size. This happened in about 15 minutes. I was in terrible pain, and thought it was an attack of arthritis. It's almost gone now, and as I have never had this before, I would like to know if there are any precautions or preventatives for arthritis.—M.S.

A—The usual kinds of arthritis do not start in the way described. Perhaps there is some other explanation for the foot swelling. Without a positive diagnosis, treatment cannot be intelligently suggested.

Q—Our nine-year-old daughter has had attacks of painful cramps in her legs since she was five. Now she is taking swimming lessons and has to get out of the pool with a leg cramp which draws her toes.—B.D.P.

A—This is an obscure kind of condition the cause of which I cannot guess at. It does not, however, seem to me wise for a youngster with these symptoms to try to swim—certainly not in water which would be over her head.

Q—Can you give me the name of a good skin specialist for something resembling eczema?—L.M.F.

A—I am sorry but I do not recommend individual physicians. You can obtain the names of qualified specialists from your County medical society or from the American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn Street, Chicago 10, Ill.

Q—What causes itchy foot blisters that fill up with water? Unless opened and covered with iodine, they become filled with pus.—A.T.

A—The description, of course, suggests a ringworm infection but, in order to make a diagnosis certain, scrapings would have to be taken and examined under the microscope. The use of tincture of iodine without knowing the cause of the condition is not advisable.

Count Cards Get Finesse

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority

In discussing today's hand Mr. Dong Kingman, a member of the Chinese team of four in New York, said he would like to furnish most of his partners with a Chinese counting board, as too many people fail to try to count down an opponent's hand.

He also said, "Very often a player takes a finesse and then they claim they are lucky or unlucky, depending upon whether it worked or not. If you are careful, quite often you can count all of the cards in the opponent's hand and then take a finesse, knowing in advance that it is going to work."

When West opens the deuce of spades he is marked with at least four spades. Declarer wins this trick with the king and immediately proceeds to knock out the ace of diamonds.

Hand diagram showing cards and a tournament table.

Hand: ♠A65, ♥AK107, ♦QJ6, ♣Q85. Opponent: ♠Q1073, ♥42, ♦984, ♣J1074.

Hand: ♠J982, ♥J863, ♦A32, ♣96. Opponent: ♠Q1073, ♥42, ♦984, ♣J1074.

Hand: ♠K4, ♥Q95, ♦K1075, ♣AK32.

Tournament—Neither vul.

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	2 ♠	Pass
3 N.T.	Pass	3 N.T.	Pass
Opening—A-2 21

Suppose West waits until the third round of diamonds before winning the trick and when he does he returns the eight of spades. Now you definitely know that he has at least four spades.

At this point declarer should lead over to his king of clubs and then cash the fourth diamond. If West lets go the nine of clubs, declarer leads a club over to the queen and West has to discard his nine of spades.

Now declarer should stop to count. He knows that West had two clubs, three diamonds and also four spades. West has never discarded a heart, so he is probably trying to protect the jack of hearts four times.

To make sure, declarer should now return to his hand with the ace of clubs and when West discards the jack of spades, he is definitely marked with four hearts, because if he had five spades to the queen-jack-nine, his opening lead would have been the queen of spades.

At this point declarer cashes the ace of hearts and leads a small heart to the queen. Then he leads a small heart and when West plays the eight-spot he should finesse the ten and in this way make 12 tricks.

IN HOLLYWOOD
Bachelor Brigade Loss Has Put on a Few Pounds!

Hollywood—(NEA)—Within five months Hollywood lost three of its prize bachelors—Jimmy Stewart, Clark Gable and Cary Grant. As Shelley Winters observes:

"It's getting so there aren't enough lone wolves left in Hollywood for one good stag party."

I just cornered Jimmy, who was the first to desert the bachelor brigade when he married Gloria McLean. And you know what? He's crazy about matrimony although he admits he's had to make certain "adjustments."

Like living in a house with below-normal temperature and having the top of their convertible down despite icy winds blowing off California's snow-capped mountains.

"Gloria," he said, "is just a good fresh-air girl. But I'm getting used to it."

Gloria has two children, 3½ and 5. That created a problem for the ex-bachelor. But the kids accomplished something Jimmy, a doctor, and a hospital couldn't do several years ago.

Jimmy went to a hospital for a week, under a doctor's care, to gain weight. The doc thought he could gain about 10 pounds. At the end of the week he had lost half a pound.

But since his marriage Jimmy has gained seven pounds.

He credits the kids. "I'm eating more than I've ever eaten in my life. I'm the 'examplary setter' for the kids. If I eat—they eat. Brother, I've been eatin'."

I'm glad to hear that M-G-M is rebookings "The Stratton Story" into a Hollywood theater before Oscar-voting time comes around to remind the voters of Jimmy's great performance. If anyone deserves a nomination, it's Jimmy.

Reason Vic Mature took a suspension for refusing to do RKO's "Alias Mike Fury" was because he thought there was "too much brutal gangster stuff." He's back on the payroll and in the film after RKO rewrote the script to his liking.

A big agency thought it was a great idea and auditioned a show in which Jack told jokes to an audience of puppets.

Says Jack, now back in Hollywood: "It stunk. The puppets just sat there."

Abundant Living
By E. STANLEY JONES
Luke 10:27-37

THE KINGDOM OF GOD IS AMONG YOU
We commented earlier on the fact that "the Kingdom of God is within you." But there is another translation which says, "The Kingdom of God is among you." Which is correct? Jesus probably used both, for both are profoundly true. If the Kingdom of God is stamped into the constitution of our own beings, it is also stamped into our relationships with one another. There is a way to get along with ourselves, and there is a way to get along with other people, and that way is God's way. The Kingdom of God is among you.

If you try to get along with others on some basis other than God's, you won't. Your relationships will break down. Try to get along with your family on the basis of dominating the rest. Result? There will be seething revolt and your own frustration and unhappiness. In trying to dominate, you break the law written into the constitution of human relationships. No, you do not break the law; you break your self upon the law.

The central law of human relationships is expounded by Jesus: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Now, you needn't obey that law; you needn't love your neighbor as you love yourself, but if you don't, you can't get along with your neighbor. Your relationships will break down. When you do not love your neighbor, you do not get rid of him; he comes back on your hands as a problem and a pain. Loving your neighbor is a forced option like eating—you do not have to eat, but if you don't eat, you can't live. You do not have to love your neighbor, but if you don't, you can't get along with him. The Kingdom of God is among you—it is the way we get along with others when we get along with them well.

Dr. Alfred Adler, who was the originator of the phrase "inferiority complex," attributed all human failure to inability to grasp the fact that "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Why does life break down if you do not love your neighbor as you love yourself? Because you are made that way.

My Father, I see that Thou art Father to Thy family. Thou hast made me so that I cannot get along with myself without getting along with the rest of the family. I see I must live by love or live by loss. Help me this day to live by love. Amen.

Westbrook Pegler
Pegler Says Modern Americans Don't Know What Marriage Should Be

New York, Jan. 22—Divorce has become the end of marriage in so many cases in the United States that "surveys" are being made and the results are being published, which is evidence that others than the clergy at last view the situation with alarm.

However, the examiners who are studying the problem are themselves unwilling, for fear of ridicule or scorn, or unable to consider the real nature of the trouble because they just don't know what marriage should be. The divorce rate, for a long time, was about one in six marriages. Just after the war when a lot of quickies were being wound up by mutual consent in the courts the casualties rose to one in three.

Some couples who have been married 20 or more years seem smug about it, as though there was some special virtue in the fact of their having endured one another that long. No person whose marriage has been happy has any excuse for bragging and none of my friends who have been married a long time ever reveals the slightest interest in divorce except as a sad, but often sordid, occurrence. Certainly, we who have been happy in marriage long enough so that the partnership can be regarded as successful and permanent deserve no public praise for our good fortune.

The terrible fault that is responsible for much of the divorce rate is selfishness and absolute ignorance of the basis of marriage which is self-sacrifice, mutual and instinctive.

The Catholic Ritual, in my opinion, expresses this best, but are the religious marriage ceremonies emphasize the fact that marriage is not to be entered as an experiment nor with mental reservations nor flippantly. No judge or justice of the peace would venture into a discussion of real love.

Friend Divorced
I have a friend whose first marriage went to divorce and then found beautiful happiness in a second one. He has shown himself capable of great love and sacrifice. He is not merely religious but anti-religious, but if he were to say angrily that his second marriage is just as valid as any that was done in a church I couldn't give him an argument, on any basis that he would accept. Nevertheless, that first marriage was one which contributed to the great score of divorces and in that one neither he nor she was loyal or unselfish. It did not seem to me that they made the effort. They were, in their minute but important degree, responsible for the low, vulgar humor and the cynical, flippant literature which discredits marriage.

The Catholic ritual admonishes the pair at the altar that marriage "will bind you together for life in a relationship so close and intimate that it will profoundly affect your whole future." And so, not knowing what is before you, you take each other for better or for worse, for richer or poorer, in sickness and in health until death.

Most Serious
Truly, these words are most serious. It is a beautiful tribute to your undoubted faith in each other, that recognizing their full import you are nevertheless so willing and ready to pronounce them. And because these words involve such solemn obligations, it is most fitting that you rest upon the great principle of self-sacrifice. And so you begin by the voluntary and complete surrender of your individual lives in the interest of that deeper and wider life which you are to have in common. Henceforth, you will belong entirely to each other; you will be one in mind, one in heart and one in affections. Whatever sacrifices you may hereafter be required to make to preserve this common life, always make them generously. Sacrifice is usually difficult and irksome. Only love can make it easy and perfect love can make it a joy. We are willing to give in proportion as we love. And when love is perfect the sacrifice is complete.

May, then, this love with which you join your hands and hearts today, never fail, but grow deeper and stronger as the years go on. And if true love and the unselfish spirit of perfect sacrifice guide your every action, you can expect the greatest measure of happiness that may be allotted to man in this vale of tears.

It has seemed to me that the studies recently presented on the basis of "surveys" ignore this absolutely necessary factor in marriage as though it were "corn," which is an intimidating word that makes many of us ashamed to own up to noble sentiments or even to decency. They deal with "behavior patterns" and other symptoms of the great lack. The wife is a nagger. The husband is stingy and stays out late. But those are just evidences of the want of love which make sacrifice easy or even pleasant. We are ashamed to discuss such things earnestly so we talk and write about maladjustment, incompatibility and suspicion. Nevada, Idaho, Arkansas and Florida flagrantly sell divorces, and localities, at least give this sorry business important rank in their commerce.

Abdication Canvass
When the young king of England was to abdicate to marry "the woman I love" who had been "loved" by several previous spouses, all livin', a canvass of their immediate social circle disclosed an amazing and amusing situation. I worked for several hours trying to make a hypothetical seating arrangement in which no ex-spouse would sit next to his or her ex-spouse, they had been married so many times among themselves. The series of relationships among ex-wives of ex-husbands of ex-wives was fantastic. At last I found the only possible combination and a few weeks later even that one was knocked cockeyed when the first Mrs. Simpson reminded me of one more marriage and divorce that I had overlooked.

I suppose there are some who are waiting for me to drop that shoe, but that would be too obvious a thing to do. The example has been horrible and undoubtedly has done great harm to the morals and sincerity of those "young people" who are the subject of a never-ending babble of exploitation and mockery. That example is one reason why people who do believe in love and take a serious view of marriage are afraid to speak out except with a precautionary smirk, a bravado to conciliate the cynics who can't understand what marriage really ought to be.

The Way to Have Fun at A Party Is—Have Fun

Whether she is sixteen or sixty when a woman goes to a party she wants to give the impression of being completely at ease.

It's easier to manage if she will keep a few important points in mind.

Remember that a fixed smile worn all evening doesn't give the impression of poise. A smile ought to come and go—when there's a reason for it. It isn't a real smile when it becomes a set expression.

She will feel more at ease if she singles out others for attention than if she gets off in a corner and waits to be singled out. Gushing is always a sign of trying too hard to be pleasant, and so is never a reflection of poise.

EXCLAMATIONS ARE NOT NECESSARY

It isn't necessary to punctuate another person's story with "how dreadful" or "how simply wonderful," etc., in order to be an attentive listener. Listening quietly is much more flattering to the person who is telling the story than constantly interrupting to make some meaningless exclamation.

Trying to cover up shyness with loud talk or loud laughter indicates nervousness instead of poise. A haughty, disdainful manner more often gives the effect of self-consciousness than of being perfectly at ease.

The surest way of appearing at ease is to go ahead and have a good time and to forget about everything but enjoying the companionship and gaiety the party offers.

AAUW to Take Part in Discussion

The Education committee of the Dixon Branch AAUW in presenting local members in a round table discussion of the subject "A Backward Glance at Our College Education" this evening at 8:00 at the Loveland Community House will have the following participating: Mrs. Henry Warner, University of Chicago, Moderator; Mrs. George Bort, Iowa State, Homemakers and community workers; Miss Paula Hessel-schwerdt, University of Illinois, social workers; Mrs. C. Miss Christine Bessmer, University of Illinois, will make a brief introductory statement concerning the importance of the local program in the national scheme and review the past. Mrs. E. B. Cartwright Lawrence College, will serve as recorder of the program. Following the panel discussion opportunity for comment and questions will be given.

Important Questionnaire
According to the article in the Fall Journal of the AAUW on the subject "The Higher Education Survey" the questionnaire not the usual yes or no type, asked what AAUW members thought about college education for women, the purpose being planned not to result in interesting statistics but to find a device by which members of the whole Association could focus their thinking on a problem about which AAUW members are uniquely competent to speak. This called for a method which would clarify each member's opinion on how her college education looked to her after several years and what changes she would recommend after her own experiences had tested the value of what she had learned at college.

In order to acquire desired information a questionnaire was printed in the Journal which was answered by one out of three members or 30,000 showing a serious section of the membership. Specific questions were on courses taken, age, occupation, and marital status.

The survey showed that a college education should be broad enough to cover every important aspect of each woman's life and should give more specific skills.

THE THRIFT STORE

You Are Cordially Invited . . .

to attend a special showing of one of America's finest lines of glassware . . . handblown Blenko glass.

Our store is beautifully decorated with a variety of floral arrangements, green plants and original creations — all designed to accent the graceful, flowing lines of lovely Blenko Decorative Glassware.

The story of Blenko is a fascinating one. The Blenko Glass Company began as makers of stained glass. It is the only company in the U. S. that uses a process popular in the 11th century for making stained windows. Today many famous cathedrals and universities boast beautiful stained windows by Blenko.

You have all seen or heard of the beautiful Williamsburg, Va., glassware reproductions. The crystal quality and original classic lines could only have been reproduced by hand, by Blenko. Blenko's faithful duplication and skilled art have made its Williamsburg glassware world-renowned.

Benko is made just as glassware was made generations, even centuries ago. It is "free hand" or "off hand", which is to say it is completely handmade. Because it is not mass produced it has the quality of comparative rarity.

This is why we are holding a special showing of Blenko vases, pitchers and bowls. The pieces you will see are Williamsburg reproductions. We are sure you will be delighted with their inherent form and color, and the rare touch given by the hand of the expert craftsman.

Hiss Will Appeal Conviction After Sentence on Wednesday

New York, Jan. 23—(AP)—Alger Hiss, convicted of perjury and branded an aide of prewar Soviet spies, will file an appeal immediately after he is sentenced in federal court Wednesday.

The one-time high-ranking state department official, an adviser to President Roosevelt at the Yalta conference, faces a possible maximum sentence of ten years in prison and $4,000 in fines.

Hiss, 45, was free in $5,000 bail after the jury of eight women and four men found him guilty Saturday about 24 hours after they received the case.

Appeal After Sentence

His chief defense counsel, Claude B. Cross, said at his home in Brookline, Mass., yesterday that the appeal will be filed with the U. S. circuit court of appeals here as soon as sentence is imposed.

Cross declined to state what grounds would be cited in the appeal. Before appealing, the defense lawyer is expected to ask the trial judge to set aside the conviction. Any appeal from the circuit court would be to the U. S. supreme court.

AAA Head Cautions Drivers On Using Drugs, Sedatives

Washington, D. C., January 24—Extreme caution by motorists in the use of drugs, sedatives and other remedies that tend to impair driving efficiency was urged today by Lou E. Holland, Kansas City, Mo., president of the American Automobile association.

Holland warned that drivers who use such remedies indiscriminately may be courting death or injury on the highway.

"Certain of the currently popular anti-histamine drugs and a number of sedatives are known to affect the alertness and reaction time of motorists," the A.A.A. president stated. "In so doing, they increase markedly the chances of an accident for the driver who is under their influence."

Holland declared that use of such drugs by motorists has long been a traffic safety problem, and that unquestionably serious accidents can be traced to their untimely use.

"Most medical authorities agree that, while only certain of the anti-histamine drugs and sedatives, including barbiturates, now being sold are unsafe for use by drivers, all of them should be taken under the advice of a physician according to the directions on the package."

"The danger of drivers using anti-histamine tablets indiscriminately has been recognized by medicinal manufacturers. According to the food and drug administration, every maker of anti-histamine pills has agreed to label his product with a warning to users not to drive if the drug produces drowsiness. The industry is certainly to be congratulated on this step in the interest of public safety."

"The council of pharmacy and chemistry of the American Medical association agrees that barbiturates are being too freely used by the general public, and that these drugs have an extremely dulling effect on reaction time and mental processes. Without medical advice, a driver should not use them."

Society Tells Of New Drug for Cancer Patients

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE Associated Press Science Editor New York, Jan. 23—(AP)—The American Cancer society today announced a drug treatment for cancer which it said has kept a few persons comfortable and productive for four years. All had been given only a few months to live.

The announcement was credited to Dr. Hugh J. Creech of the Institute for Cancer Research Philadelphia, which has been working for four years on this cancer sugar.

"More than 130 far-advanced cancer patients have been treated," said today's announcement. "None is considered permanently cured. Most of them seemed to receive at least slight benefit. Between 20 and 30 per cent were helped in one or more of several ways—tumors shrank, pain disappeared, weight increased, appetite returned, more or less normal activity was resumed and there was a sense of well-being."

What this sugar treatment will lead to was not predicted, but Dr. Creech said there is enough encouragement to work on these sugars for at least 10 years.

Similar sugars were at the base of the famous Coley's fluid which years ago was said to have caused some sensational cancer cures. The fluid was abandoned when the medical profession was unable to get consistent good results.

Prisoners Turn Jail Into Bedlam In Escape Effort

Miami, Fla., Jan. 23—(AP)—Four prisoners turned Dade county's skyscraper jail into bedlam last night in an escape try which came within a key of success.

The prisoners, led by convicted forger George Bertrand, obtained every key but the one leading to freedom by slugging a guard and a trusty into unconsciousness. As they went along, the four blithely opened cell doors and invited some 150 or more other prisoners to join them, but only three responded.

The seven worked their way through doors from the 21st to the 19th floor and, upon reaching the one door barring the elevator to freedom, found they didn't have that last key.

Dade county's jail was touted for years as "escape proof" until a bank robber, Clyde Milton Johnson, walked out March 1, 1949. He later was recaptured.

Elliott Moves To Enforce Psychopath Law

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23—(AP)—Attorney General Ivan A. Elliott today made a new legal move aimed at obtaining enforcement of the state's 1947 criminal psychopath act.

Elliott filed a petition in Randolph county circuit court for a writ of mandamus to compel William G. Jurgens, Randolph county judge, to obey provisions of the act.

Jurgens has held the act invalid and Elliott says the judge has announced he will not follow its provisions.

The act provides that a prisoner sentenced for a sex offense must be examined, prior to his release, by a commission named by the county judge.

If the prisoner is found to be insane, feeble minded or a criminal sex psychopath, he must be turned over to the state welfare department for confinement in a state hospital.

Last week the Illinois supreme court denied Elliott permission to file for a writ compelling enforcement of the act.

Thief Takes $50,000 In 'Worthless' Gems

Greenville, Tex., Jan. 23—(AP)—Someone stole between $50,000 and $75,000 worth of diamonds from the Core laboratories Saturday night, but to the thief they're practically worthless.

Plant officials said it would be almost impossible to peddle the 12,000 carats in industrial diamonds because of the close relationship between dealers and manufacturers.

They think the burglars who cracked the plant's safe grabbed the small fortune in industrial diamonds in ignorance. Each lot of diamonds has a key stone, easily recognizable by any jeweler who has been warned to look for it. W. H. Davidson, president of the firm, said descriptions would be sent immediately to all jewelry associations.

Marooned Passengers Evacuated by Plane

Seattle, Jan. 23—(AP)—Aerial evacuation of 1,200 marooned railway passengers in British Columbia was started yesterday, but elsewhere the Pacific Northwest was headed back to normal after 10 days of cold and thaw.

Four Trans-Canada and Canadian Pacific airlines planes were sent to Penticon and Kamloops, B. C., from Vancouver to pick up the passengers from six westbound trains, stalled three days by snow-slides.

They switched their theory that the gunmen used a pass key or master key after Special Officer Arthur Ahern opened a half a dozen locks with a fingernail file and penknife.

The demonstration was given last night on new locks installed at the company's raided garage vaults. Ahern said, however, that the old locks could have been opened just as easily.

Police Commissioner Thomas F. Sullivan and Police Superintendent Edward W. Fallon witnessed the demonstration.

When Ahern opened the last door barring the way to the firm's vaults, Sullivan described the security as "outrageous."

The demonstration was given shortly before three carloads of detectives swarmed into the company's garage to examine a steel-gray canteen truck—the same color as Brink's trucks.

The owner of the vehicle was released after a long grilling by top detectives. They said they were convinced that neither the owner nor his truck was in the vicinity of the holdup.

Illinois Guard to Recruit One Week

Chicago, Jan. 23—(AP)—The Illinois National Guard will resume recruiting this week, but only to maintain its full authorized strength.

Major Gen. Joseph A. Teece, the state guard commander, said Saturday that enrollment of ground units is now 19,386, although the state ceiling has been fixed at 19,000.

Applications will be sought to replace men who leave the guard and to build up a priority list of candidates.

The new recruiting does not apply to the Illinois Air National Guard.

Senators Press for Racketeering Probe

Washington, Jan. 23—(AP)—Two senators pressed today for a full-scale senate investigation into "nation-wide gambling and racketeering activities."

The words were those of Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.), who proposed yesterday that at least two—and possibly three—committees be authorized to engage in such an inquiry.

Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn.) already has asked the senate to give the judiciary committee $100,000 for such a probe.

McCarthy said the senate's special investigations subcommittee uncovered some leads during the five percent hearings last year which might be worth following up. He said the commerce committee might get into the inquiry too.

Three in Race for Supreme Court Clerk

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 23—(AP)—William H. Brown of Chicago filed nominating petitions today as a Republican candidate for clerk of the state supreme court.

Earle Benjamin Searcy of Springfield, the incumbent, and Eugene T. Devitt of Elgin previously filed for the GOP court clerk nomination.

The secretary of state's election department said it expected a heavy list of filings today—the final day for entering the April 11 primary.

Assistant Gets SMU Grid Post

Dallas, Jan. 23—(AP)—H. N. (Rusty) Russell, who brought the plays he cooked up in building a fabulous record as a high school coach into big-time football with dazzling results, is Southern Methodist's new gridiron head man.

The 54-year-old Russell, assistant coach at SMU for five years, was elevated to the head coaching job over the week-end as Matty Bell, for 26 years a college mentor—half that time at Southern Methodist—resigned to devote all his attention to being athletic director.

NOTICE -- Lee County Voters!

This is to announce that I seek no future political office in Lee County, having decided on a private business career which will be announced at some later date.

I wish to sincerely express my appreciation to the voters of Lee County for their fine support in the last general election which enabled my serving this present term as County Treasurer.

During this term in office, I have made a host of new friendships in both parties throughout the county, on which I shall always place a high value. Friendships, that I trust will gain in strength with the passing of time.

Twenty-Hour Strike Shuts Steel Company

Pittsburgh, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The nation's fourth largest steel company hustled back into operation today after a 20-hour strike on its supply-toting railroad forced it to shut down.

The brief strike by 400 workers on the Monongahela railroad over a discharged employee idled 12,000 Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation employees and 5,000 workers of smaller firms serviced by the line. The walkout ended early yesterday.

In excavations at the tomb of King Zoser, an Egyptian monarch, who ruled 3000 B. C., elaborate beer mugs were found.

Morris on Thursday, Jan. 26, 7:30. Zigler returned in December from Geneva, Switzerland, where he serves as the Church of the Brethren's representative to the World Council of Churches and director of the European relief and reconstruction work of the Brethren Service Commission. He is spending six months in the United States.

M. R. ZIGLER

States to report on conditions in Europe. The engagement here is part of a nation-wide speaking tour.

Associated With National Officers described as the best known representative of his denomination, Zigler has been associated with its national headquarters at Elgin, Ill., since 1919 when he became its secretary for home missions. Later he also served as secretary for ministry and for Christian education.

Since 1941 he has been closely associated with the Brethren Service Commission, the denomination's agency for postwar relief, work for world peace, and care of religious objects. He was the commission's executive secretary until 1945 when he assumed his present duties in Europe.

Active in 'Interchurch'

Greatly interested in interdenominational cooperation, Zigler has been active in numerous interchurch organizations and movements, among them the Home Missions Council of North America, the International Council of Religious Education, the National Council of Churches, the National Service Board for Religious Objects, Church World Service, CARE, CRALOG, and the Rural Life Association.

He was a delegate to the world-wide religious conferences at Edinburgh and Oxford in 1937, and to the Amsterdam assembly of the World Council of Churches in 1948. In addition to extensive travel in Europe since 1945, he visited China and Japan in 1947.

A native of Virginia, Zigler has a degree from Bridgewater College in that state. He has done graduate work at Vanderbilt School of Religion, Bethany Biblical Seminary, and the University of Chicago. He was ordained to the ministry of the Church of the Brethren in 1919.

Boyle Sees Champagne Plant Turn Grape Clusters to Wine

By HAL BOYLE

Urbana, N. Y.—(AP)—Turning a cluster of grapes into a bottle of champagne is about as complicated as motherhood.

I found this out during an afternoon in a winery, here in the heart of the Finger Lakes region known as "The Champagne District of America."

The invitation came from Stewart Underhill, head of the Urbana Winery Company, whose family has been making grapes in New York off and on for 150 years.

First Winery I accepted it gladly. For 20 years people have been showing me through steel plants, auto plants, airplane plants or button-hole factories. Nobody ever gave me a steel beam for a souvenir, a motor car, a B-36 bomber—or even a buttonhole.

But a trip through a winery—well, that was something else. The least I could expect was the freedom of its press.

And my heart really bounded when I entered the first chamber in the winery—which has more than a mile of tunnels. It was filled with huge oak and cypress

It seems they have people paid to do this. And there is a long waiting list for the jobs.

So, getting dryer at every step, I learned how grape squeezings end up in a champagne bottle.

The grape juice, sugar and yeast lie happily together in the oak casks for months. The wine is then drawn off and blended with other wines—and this is where the winemaker's skill enters. The blended wine then is put in bottles, more yeast and sugar are added, and the bottles are corked and laid on their sides. There they meditate for years.

"Can't Hurry"

"It is the flavor released by the fermenting yeast that makes the true champagne flavor, and it can not be hurried," said Fournier. "It is produced only by being aged in the bottle for one to four years."

Periodically the bottles are vibrated to insure complete fermentation. When properly aged, the bottles are put in racks, head down. Twice a day for eight weeks a man known as "a shaker" gives each bottle a quarter turn in the rack. This is to cause the sediment to gather on the cork.

By quick-freezing the wine in the neck of the bottle, the winemaker is able to remove the cork and sediment. A new cork is then inserted, the labels added—and the champagne is ready.

"The reason champagne cannot be produced cheaply is that each bottle must be handled 250 times before it is ready for shipment," said Fournier.

What We Do Today Determines Our Success Tomorrow!

DIXON WATER CO.

"And how many bottles do you have here?"

"Oh, perhaps 3,000,000."

"My, my—all that champagne," I said admiringly.

A moment later a cork popped as the house bought.

And then there were 2,999,999 bottles. A grape is a wonderful thing to spend an afternoon with.
